The Garden Company, a Hertfordshire-based landscape design and build business, has been awarded not just one but two highly-respected National Landscape awards by the British Association of Landscape Industries. This brings the number of national awards won by the company since it was founded in the 1990s to a total of 20. Both winning projects are in the Domestic Garden Construction category and met the judging panel's requirement for exceptionally high standards of professionalism and skill.

James Scott, Managing Director, commented 'These Awards are held in high esteem in the UK and internationally and winning one (or two!) is a huge achievement. I would like to thank our clients for trusting us with their valued garden projects, and also say a well-deserved thank you and well done to our landscape teams who put in the skills, passion for beautiful gardens and solid hard work that led to this result. I am personally very proud of the fantastic track record that we have built over the years - not only for our high quality construction work, but also for our garden design and maintenance services.
